Black Muslims in the U.S.:
The Struggle for Racial Equality & Religious Freedom
A Lunchtime Talk in Law, Rights, & Religion

Wednesday, November 15th
Columbia Law School | 435 West 116th Street
Jerome Greene Hall | Room 546
12:10 pm

Carl Lipscombe, Deputy Director, BAJI
Kira Shepherd, Director, Racial Justice Project

The U.S. Government has instated discriminatory policies against Black Muslims for decades - in recent months, the Trump administration has continued this pattern. Carl Lipscombe and Kira Shepherd will discuss how these policies infringe upon Black Muslims' religious liberty rights, as well as their fundamental rights to equality and justice.

This event is free and open to the public. A non-pizza lunch will be served.
