Law School

Please note that applications to Columbia Law School must be submitted electronically through LSAC (www.lsac.org). Paper applications will not be accepted. However, the Dean's Appraisal/Certification must be emailed from an official university address to deanscerts@law.columbia.edu (strongly preferred method) or mailed directly to the Office of Admissions:

Columbia Law School
Office of Admissions
435 West 116th Street, Mail Code 4004
New York, NY 10027-7297

Candidates for Transfer and Visiting admission should submit their applications as soon as possible after May 1, 2021. Applications are not evaluated by our Admissions Committee until all required materials have been received and are generally evaluated in the order in which they are completed. The application deadline is July 15, 2021.

To avoid any confusion or delay in the processing of your application, please ensure that you: (1) consistently use your proper name; (2) keep us informed of any address, telephone number, or email address changes during the application process; and (3) write your LSAC account number on all correspondence. Applicants must submit electronically the following documents:

- Application for Admission: Applicants must complete all sections of the application for admission before submission.
- Résumé: In response to question 13.1, applicants must submit a résumé of up to two pages detailing significant full- or part- time employment positions held. This may include internships, summer employment, and community service. In addition, the résumé should include a summary of written scholarship, presentations, and principal extracurricular activities.
- Personal Statement: Applicants must submit a personal statement in response to question 14.1.
- Optional Supplemental Statements: Applicants, if they wish, may submit brief supplemental statements that will provide useful information to the Admissions Committee in evaluating the application.
- Application Fee: The application fee is $85 (US funds only). Applicants who transmit their applications electronically may pay with a credit card online, which is our strongly preferred method of payment. Applicants who can only pay using a check or money order must print, sign, and mail the Certification Letter to the Office of Admissions along with the check or money order.

Supporting Documents

Dean's Appraisal/Certification

The Dean's Appraisal/Certification Form or an equivalent certification of good standing must be submitted from (1) the law school where you are currently enrolled in a degree program; (2) from any college or university at which you have already earned a degree; and (3) if applicable, from any college or university where you were matriculated toward a degree (regardless of whether a degree was received). Dean's Appraisal/Certification forms must be mailed in hard copy to the Office of Admissions or emailed from an official university address to deanscerts@law.columbia.edu (strongly preferred method).

Please note: it is not necessary that the Dean or other Administrator responsible for such certification know you personally. The Dean or other Administrator may complete the Dean's Appraisal(s) or Certification(s) on the basis of official records.

If you plan to attend Columbia as a visiting student, the Dean's Appraisal(s) or Certification(s) must include a letter with the following information:

1. your law school's approval for you to pursue studies as a visiting student, including the timeframe for which you have been given approval;
2. your current standing at your law school;
3. your projected graduation date; and
4. the minimum number of credits you will be required to complete and, if applicable, any specific coursework requirements that you would have to fulfill at Columbia Law School

Please note that except in certain exceptional circumstances, visiting status is approved only for the third year of study.

Letters of Recommendation

Requirements

Columbia requires transfer applicants to submit two letters of recommendation and visiting applicants to submit one letter of recommendation in addition to the Dean's Appraisal(s) or Certification(s). For transfer applicants, both letters of recommendation must be submitted by your current law school faculty, and the letter of recommendation for visiting applicants must be submitted by your current law school faculty. Applicants may submit more than two letters of recommendation but should be aware that their applications may be deemed complete and forwarded to the Admissions Committee once the required number of recommendations from law school faculty have been received.

Suggested Content

Recommenders should address matters of significance that speak to the ability of the applicant to thrive in an intellectually stimulating academic environment. For example, recommenders may address the strength of the applicant's intelligence, analytical skills, independence of thought, problem-solving skills, effectiveness of oral and written communication, motivation, self-confidence, concern for others, emotional maturity, personal initiative, judgment, leadership ability, and organizational skills.

Submitting Letters of Recommendation

Columbia Law School strongly prefers that letters of recommendation be sent through the LSAC Letter of Recommendation Service. LSAC sends Columbia letters of recommendation electronically as they become available. Please do not send duplicate letters directly to Columbia Law School.

If it is impossible to utilize the LSAC Letter of Recommendation Service, letters of recommendation may be sent to Columbia Law School in one of two ways using the Faculty Appraisal Form found through the online application or the Columbia Law School admissions website: (1) recommenders may provide the applicant with the letter in a sealed, signed envelope to be sent to Columbia Law School, or (2) recommenders may send the letter directly to Columbia Law School.

Transcripts

All applicants are to register for the LSAC Credential Assembly Service (CAS) in order for us to access undergraduate and/or prior graduate degree transcripts. For more information about the CAS, please call (215) 968-1001 or visit www.lsac.org. Applicants may submit their current law school transcripts either through the CAS (preferred) or directly from their school's registrar's office.

Submission of Spring Term grades:

Please forward updates of your law school transcripts to the Office of Admissions as soon as they become available, as your application will not be reviewed until all of your first-year grades have been submitted. You may send updates of your law transcripts via email as PDF attachments to admissions@law.columbia.edu concurrent with requesting an official copy to be sent to the Office of Admissions.

Submission of Summer Term grades:

Applicants taking summer courses must submit a transcript indicating their grades for all courses taken in the Summer Term before their file will be considered complete and reviewed. You may send updates of your law transcripts via email as PDF attachments to admissions@law.columbia.edu concurrent with requesting an official copy to be sent to the Office of Admissions.

Applicants taking experiential courses during the Summer Term may petition for their file to be completed before such grades are received by emailing admissions@law.columbia.edu; however, there is no guarantee that such petitions will be granted.

Please note that matriculating transfer students must submit no later than August 15th of the year of matriculation at Columbia Law School final, official transcripts from all undergraduate institutions at which they matriculated for a degree. In addition, transferring students must submit final, official transcripts from the university at which they completed their first-year law studies, also no later than August 15th. Students who fail to do so in a timely manner may be withdrawn from the Law School.

Submission of Additional Material

Applicants are expected to be diligent in providing all necessary information for review of their candidacy prior to the completion of their applications, and it is incumbent upon them to use the Status Checker (law.columbia.edu/admissions/jd/apply/check-application-status) to keep track of their application materials. Please note that once an application is listed as "Complete," no further information is communicated via the Status Checker.

Once an application is complete, please do not submit additional materials unless they convey essential information, as there is no guarantee such materials will be placed in your application prior to the evaluation. Furthermore, additional materials may potentially slow down the review of your candidacy. Essential information includes address changes and updated transcripts.

General Comments

Application Completion

Because the timeframe for the Transfer/Visiting admissions cycle is condensed, you are encouraged to request and submit materials—especially documents that must be received in hard copy and/or rely on third parties for completion, like the Dean's Appraisal/Certification, transcripts, and letters of recommendation—well in advance of the July 15, 2021 deadline. Late materials often delay or make impossible the review of a candidate's application. So that the Admissions Committee may review your application and render a decision within a reasonable amount of time, it is of the utmost importance to have read very carefully the application instructions above.

Tuition

Tuition for 2020–2021 is $72,352. There are additional mandatory fees for transcripts, health and related services, student activities, and university facilities, which are $2,643 for 2020–2021.

Insurance for hospital care and standard medical coverage is also required ($3,676) unless U.S. students can show proof of comparable coverage. The total budget for the nine-month academic year, including tuition, fees, room, board, books, and personal expenses, is $104,420 for a single student. Expenses are adjusted annually.

Financial Aid

Transfer Students:

Students admitted to the J.D. program with advanced standing are not considered for Columbia Law School grant assistance. Therefore, the Law School does not accept grant applications from students admitted with advanced standing in their second or third years. Because most transfer students usually are not admitted until late in the summer or fall, it is important that they begin the financial aid application process as soon as possible—filing the FAFSA, obtaining the appropriate federal loan (Direct Unsubsidized, Graduate PLUS) Master Promissory Note/MPN, and applying for approval on credit-based education loans. We ask that you complete your application for loan assistance only after accepting Columbia’s offer of admission by submitting the following items to the Financial Aid Office: the Financial Aid Questionnaire, applicable MPN(s) and/or private loan application materials, and all required supporting documents (e.g., SAR, verification form, taxes, etc.). The Financial Aid Office will make every effort to expedite your loan applications so that you may have your funds early in the semester and, if possible, by the start of classes.

U.S. citizens and eligible noncitizens who plan on borrowing from the federal loan programs (Direct Unsubsidized, Graduate PLUS) or hope to qualify for federal work-study funding, should file their FAFSA applications by no later than the date they submit their applications for admission to the Law School. Additional loan funds may be available from private educational loan programs.

International students (not U.S. citizens and not eligible noncitizens) are not eligible for federally guaranteed assistance programs. In addition, they typically need to provide a U.S. cosigner in order to apply for private educational loan programs. Please refer to the Columbia Law School website (law.columbia.edu/about/departments/financial-aid) for additional information. We strongly advise all international students seeking educational loans to secure an eligible cosigner as early as possible.

Visiting Students:

Students from other U.S. law schools who have been accepted to take upper-class courses at Columbia Law School as nonmatriculants (receiving their J.D. degree from their home institution), and who need financial aid to meet their educational costs, must arrange with their home institution for the processing of their financial aid. The home institution must forward a Consortium Agreement Form to the Columbia Law School Financial Aid Office (FAO), confirming that the home institution will process all financial aid for its student. The Columbia Law School FAO will complete the Consortium Agreement Form and will verify the student’s cost of attendance, dates of attendance, and enrollment status for the period of study at Columbia Law School. Please remember that Columbia Law School will not process any financial aid for the visiting, nonmatriculating student. Generally, the student’s home institution will forward the financial aid proceeds to our FAO to be applied toward the student’s Columbia University tuition and fee charges. In some cases, the home institution will send the loan proceeds directly to the student, who, in turn, will need to apply them toward payment of the Columbia University charges.

How to Apply for Financial Aid for 2021–2022

The following is a summary of the forms needed to apply for financial aid. For detailed information on financial aid policies and procedures, costs, budgets, and various loan programs, please review the financial aid website (law.columbia.edu/about/departments/financial-aid).

- FAFSA (Free Application for Federal Student Aid)
Prior to submitting an application for admission, the FAFSA should be completed by all U.S. citizens and eligible noncitizens applying for financial aid and submitted to the federal processor (studentaid.ed.gov/sa/fafsa). Columbia University’s Title IV School Code: 002707.
- Columbia Law School Financial Aid Questionnaire
Upon acceptance to the Law School, transfer students can send an email to the Financial Aid Office (financial_aid@law.columbia.edu) to receive the Columbia Law School Financial Aid Questionnaire.
- Loan Application(s):
Admitted transfer students intending to enroll at the Law School should submit completed loan application materials to the Financial Aid Office as soon as they are admitted to ensure quick processing and availability of loan funds at the start of the semester for which they intend to enroll. Please refer to the financial aid website (law.columbia.edu/about/departments/financial-aid) for detailed information.

The Loan Repayment Assistance Program

Columbia Law School's Loan Repayment Assistance Program (LRAP) supports Columbia J.D. graduates who pursue public interest and public service careers by providing them with financial assistance to service the educational debt they assumed while at Columbia Law School. In addition, several fellowships for public interest have been established, and fellowship recipients may receive assistance for all loan payments on their Columbia Law School debt. A full description of our LRAP can be found on the financial aid website (law.columbia.edu/financial-aid) or may be requested from the Financial Aid Office.

Housing

Transfer students are eligible to apply for on-campus housing accommodations. While availability is not guaranteed, please know students will receive housing assignments based on a first-come, first-served basis. Students should apply for housing as soon as they have received their formal admission information, including their Personal Identification Number (PIN) and after they have activated their Columbia ID (UNI). Additional housing information may be found on the UAH website (<http://facilities.columbia.edu/housing>). For specific questions, you may also contact Adrienne Leon, Manager of Housing and Student Life, at housing@law.columbia.edu.
